man's Act, drew a clear distinction, in principle between time bargains in bank shares and in the stock of other companies -a distinction which the Hongkong Bill, for reasons which it is of course easier to appreciate in Hongkong than it is in Bombay, does not recognise. Where the credit of land companies and of other limited lit has resulted in practically putting an end to speculative dealings in Bank shares. "The first retort with which any attempt at general prohibition of the practice would be met, would be that if time bargains in shares are to be stopped the Logislature will not be logical if it telerates time burgains in exchange and in produce a declaration which could of course only be acted upon by sending half of us about

When this Bill was introduced for the first time on 21st July last the Attorney-General is reported to have said:—

"There is no doubt that this Bill will require ery serious consideration, for it is well known that there is in this Colony a very large business. lone in the selling and purchasing of shares on what is known as time bargains. Up to the preent moment these transactions have been looked apon as perfectly logal and have been recognised by the Courts of Justice. The effect of this Bill would be to a great extent to stop these transiotions or at least to render them yory uncertain adeed, as such contracts are declared void. One the questions which therefore may be asked whether this measure is not to stringent, or notwithstanding abuses which have taken place, there has been a very large amount of these transactions which are perfectly legal. When two persons have come to an agreement with respect to shares and when they are both able to carry-out their contracts, when the time comes for the purchase, is the legislature to step n and stop the effect of it because matters have not turned out favourably to one of the parties? Again will this Ordinance have the effect of stopping such busines ? If this measure is contrary to public opinion or in idvance of public opinion, we may see the spectacle of the legislature having passed a law which is being openly violated every day, and I hink that would have a very demoralising

I am inclined to agree with the learned Atpropey-General's remarks and with the views of many others I have consulted who think this Bill is in advance of public opinion and that if passed as it now stands it will not have the affect of stopping such business, but that it will have a decidedly demoralizing effect.

Some years ago I was of opinion that time bargains were pernicious in many instances, and I then recommended the propriety of introducing the Leeman's Act into local legislation. It was, however, not introduced, as the other Bank managers were opposed to it, and the public were not consulted, evidently as it was deemed unne-

The said Act is daily and habitually violated in London, and the Stock Exchange there ignore it absolutely and entirely; nevertheless it may be, under ordinary and normal circumstances, the Leeman's Act it passed here might possibly have a beneficial effect in so far as it about fifty persons, mostly non-voters, proposded should act as a deterrent. Other Bank Manigers, however, of longer experience of the Colony than myself are of a totally different candidate present while this was done. The votes opinion, and maintain that the proposed bill; or having been counted and checked, a few minutes even Leeman's Act, is not only inadvisable but before seven o'clock the result of the poli was would be prejudicial. They say it would be adead letter except when dishonest speculation came to griof, that then its action would protect and favour the rogues, that it would not stop time bargains, that it would encourage dishonest speculato s, and possibly also induce men who were not actually dishonest to begin with, but whose sense of henour is not of the highest class, to speculate wildly in time bargains knowing that if their speculations turn out well it will be a good thing, if badly they can repudiate their contracts successfully under the provisions of the proposed Act.

Further, they consider that the passing of the proposed Ordinance, which directly interferes with the freedom of contract, would have the ffect of teading to create a dead market and of permanently depressing the value of local stocks. They are alarmed at the sweeping and revolutionary step contemplated, incomnoh as if passed into law it may be attended with serious conse-

In preference to introducing the Leeman's or ficensed, sworn, and substantially, guaranteed condition of the system complained of. It might be well to go further and revise the stamp duty on brokers' contracts and thus help to augment our fast shrinking revenue, and aid in paying our constantly increasing official salaries. The present cannot but be regarded as a most inapportune time f r the introduction of sweeping and revolutionary legislation. There are numerous commercial and other failures taking place all over the world and in our midst, credit is greatly disturbed, mistrust generally obtains, and confidence is severely shaken. There has been too much fresh and hasty legislation of late to recuperate and economise. - Yours very truly, T. H. WHITEHELD.

Duily Nows;— The very serious disturbances, that are now Junecourring in various place in mid-China, and in which two English lives have already been taken. and an immouse amount of foreign-owned property destroyed, make it desirable that a true understanding should be arrived at as to the circumstances connected with, and the consideration bearing upon, these outbreaks. Having made a special study of Chinese politics.

formany years, and nore particularly of the undercurrents of the internal politics of China, I may to all foreigners confessedly a very dark and unfathomable subject. In my letter to you of the 27th ult., I stated some of the conclusions which I had arrived at some years ago, and events which have occurred since you published that letter on the 29th ult. seem to have corroborated in every detail the correctness of those conclusions. I now propose to maka a few general observations upon certain points of special importance. First; as regards the cause or causes of these disturbances. I have long been of opinion that a spirit of unrest has arisen, and years, and that it exists in much greater force in certain parts of China than in others. Its inception arose, I think, from an unconscious and inuate feeling, which would be considered England and America as one of healthy discontent. The "progressive desire" which seized upon Japan a generation ago is beginning to work in China, and will rau its course as surely and irresistibly as it has in that country. though very possibly in a different manner, and at a different pace. The feeling has as yet produced no articulate expression of the wrongs to be removed, the improvements to be achieved. I or the results to be attained, but it has led to the banding together of enormous numbers of men in secret societies which seem to have agreed upon one point in common, namely, that the removel of the present Mancher dynasty, and the establishment of a purely Chinese dynasty on the throne, is the first object of their desires. Secret accieties have undonbtedly existed in China from a remote period of history, but they have greatly increased in numbers of late years. and comprise all classes, both official, mercantile. and agricultura!, the most important element at | Sovereigns, Bank's Buving Rate......6.26 present being military officials and soldiers. Next, as regards the forces that are now at work in connection with political movements in Chiua. During the last thirty years or so, two provinces of China have risen to a commanding position, viz. Hunan and Anhui, and the rivalry now existing between the people of these two provinces, and which extends from the very highest to the lowest, is the dominant factor in the politics of the immediate future of China.
